Overview
The fifth grade communicable disease curriculum encourages students to make healthy behavioral choices to prevent infection of communicable diseases including HIV/AIDS and to recognize and utilize health information to promote individual health.